

G-TEM

Award-winning, world-class manufacturer of automotive body in white components

Production Manager

Day in the Life

Starting your day in our bustling manufacturing environment, you'll be kicking things off by leading your team briefing. You'll be sharing clear production targets for the day, reflecting on the previous performance, and inspiring your team to exceed expectations. Liaising with other members of the management team, you'll confirm everything is ready to hit the ground running, ensuring the day's production schedule is on track.

As the day progresses, you'll collaborate with the team to deliver the overall production schedule. You'll manage your team's resources, ensuring the right people with the right skills are in place. You shall actively manage department KPI's and escalate issues to ensure targets are achieved

Throughout the day, you're making quick decisions, solving challenges, and finding innovative ways to optimise performance – playing a critical role in maintaining our world-class standards. If this sounds like your kind of challenge, apply today!
